Abstract

100-10-1491W-114

Part of the beauty of a person or a place lies in its evanescence; nothing is forever, so memories were invented instead. Memories are born of feelings, and feelings must be expressed in words and pictures.

In the beginning was the Idea: A college for women and an education in the Sacred Heart tradition.

The Idea took shape and become a reality: a community was formed. Some of its hopes would be realized, and some would not. But the academic learned to bend to the personal and the people learned from each other.

Part of the beauty of a person or a place was its uniqueness, nothing is forever, so memories were invented instead. Memories are born of feelings, and feelings must be expressed in words and pictures.
In the beginning was the Idea. A college for women and an education in the "laxest, least tradition."
The Idea took shape and became a reality. A community was formed. Some of its hopes would be realized, and some would not.
But the academic learned to bend to the personal and the people learned from each other.

We become
the places we inhabit
our faces grow transparent
as their names, frail
with holy surprise
— Joyce Carol Oates

thirty-six months
of our lives
times that seem
like eternity
as the hands
of clocks
refuse to move

meeting friends
watching the minutes
pass too quickly

The library is the only place where a person can find Chaucer and the New York Times in the same company. And it often is the only place where the mind can read the written word of others and adapt it to its own thoughts.

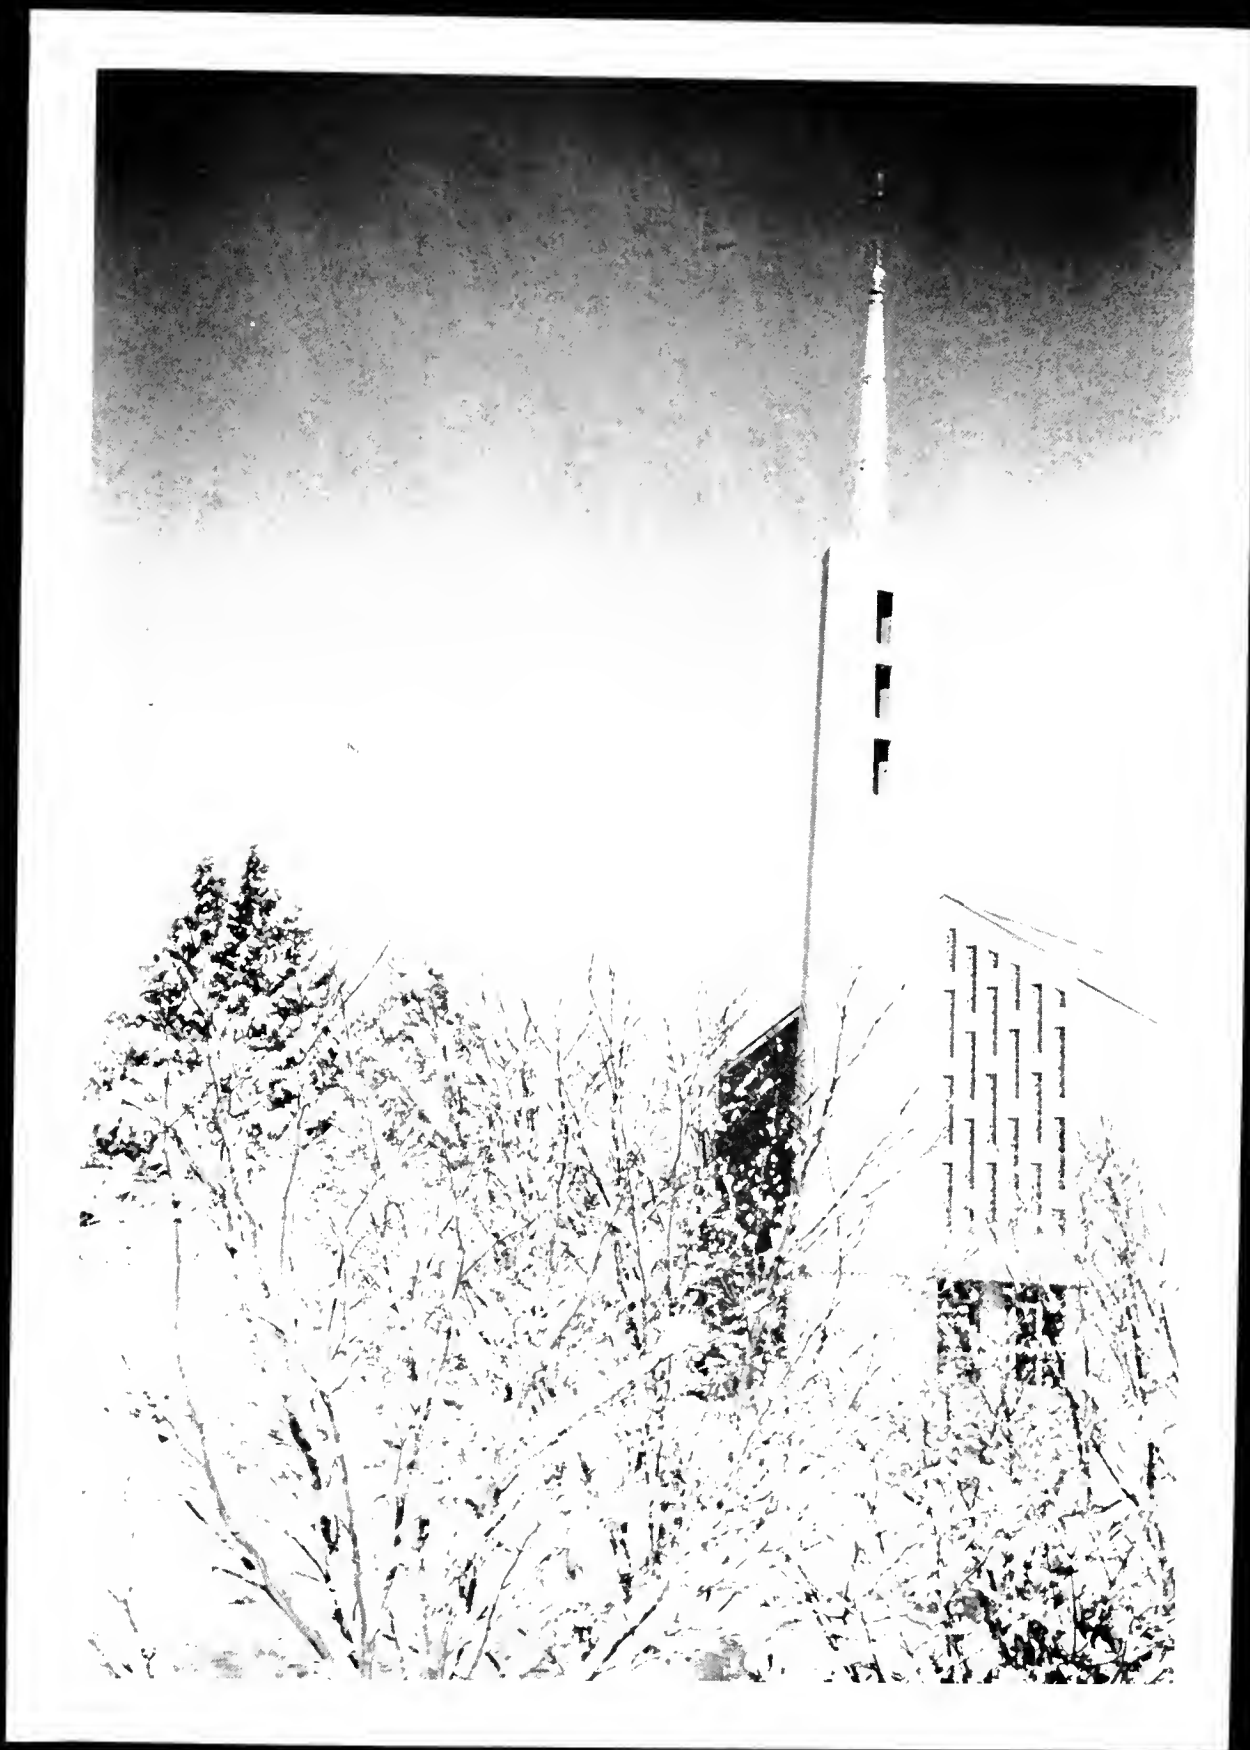

To recognize beauty in both the real and the ideal
is an intensely personal joy —
one which the artist seeks to share

When others participate in the excitement of a successful work it heightens their awareness of self and furthers the mastery of the art of seeing.

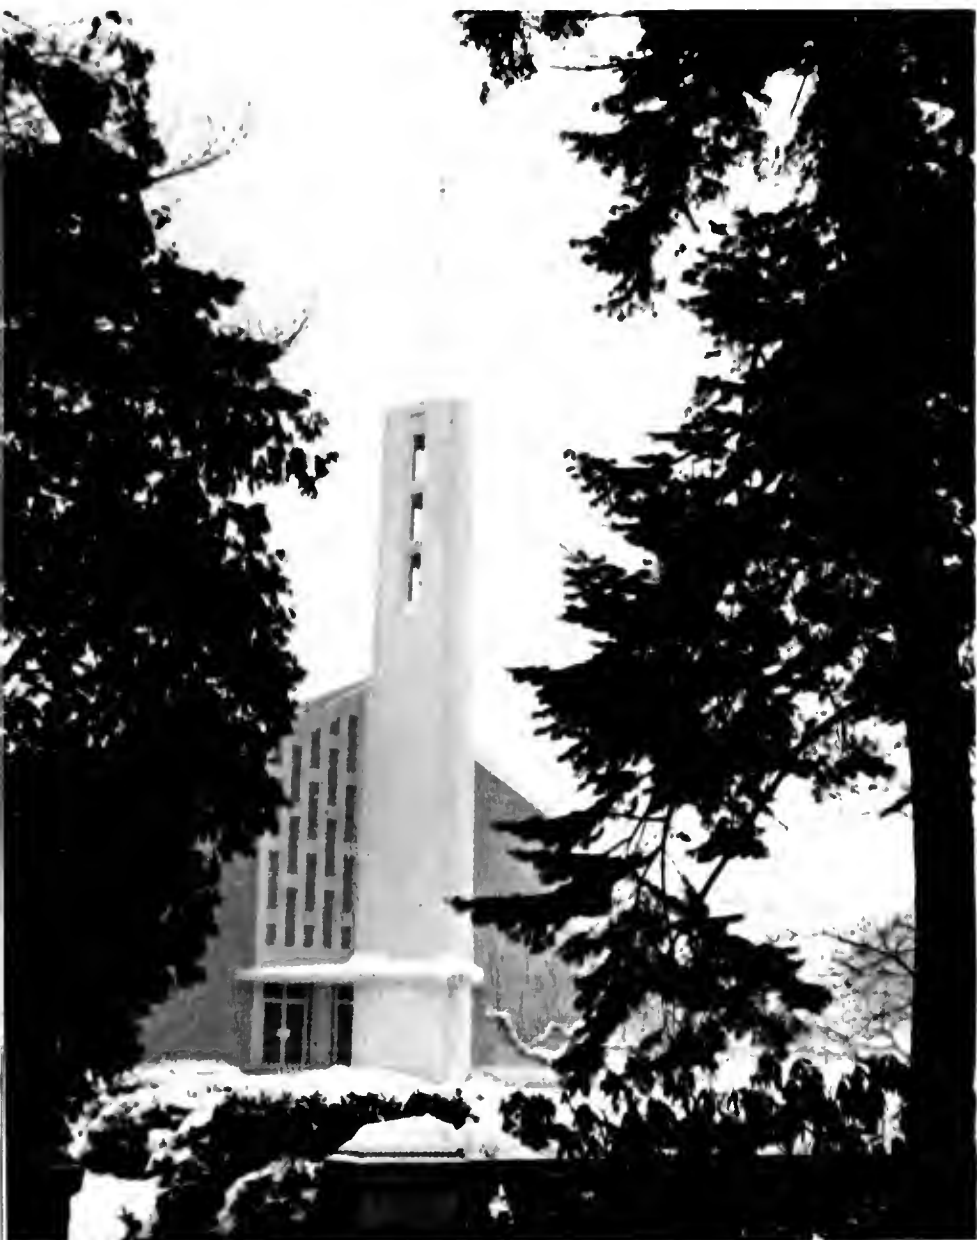

What if it should turn out eternity
Was but the steeple on our house of life
That made our house of life a house of worship?

Newton College was founded in 1946 by the Society of the Sacred Heart at the urging of the late Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston. In 1950, bachelor of arts degrees were awarded to the thirty-four women who comprised the first graduating class.

Mother Eleanor Kenny was the college's foundress and she remained President until 1956 when Mother Gabrielle Husson succeeded her. It was under Mother Husson's direction that the original campus facilities were expanded to the present plan.

Barat House, formerly the estate of the Schrafft family, and the Putman Art Center, formerly the Harriman residence, were the only existing structures in 1946. In the following year, the north wing of Stuart House was erected and a further addition was completed in 1955. Cushing House was constructed in 1955 as well, and at that time the entering freshman class numbered one hundred. Duchesne East and West were added to the campus in 1957 and Hardey House, the largest dormitory, was built in 1959. The Newton College Chapel, with a seating capacity of nine hundred, was completed in 1962, and two years later the Student-Faculty Center was added to Stuart. Keyes South was built in 1965 and the Kenny-Cottle Library was completed in 1966. In 1969, the two most ambitious building projects, Keyes North and the Barry Science Pavilion, brought an era of construction and expansion at Newton to a close. At that time Dr. James J. Whalen became the third and current President of Newton College.

For hundreds of young women, one of the most memorable faces among the many encountered during Freshmen Orientation belonged to our Dean of Students — affectionately introduced to us as “de la”.

From those first hectic days on it became apparent just how much Newton College needed her. With a tireless supply of warmth she proved to be genuinely concerned with our survival — more than that — our happiness.

To the variety of seemingly hopeless problems presented to her, she offered a variety of solutions. She was always a sympathetic listener.

Sister de la Chapelle has maintained a significant role in the growth of Newton College — but perhaps more important — she will always be a very dear friend to us all.

The most agreeable of all companions is a simple, frank person, without any high pretensions to an oppressive greatness — one who loves life, and understands the use of it; obliging alike at all hours; above all, of a golden temper, and steadfast as an anchor. For such a one we gladly exchange the greatest genius, the most brilliant wit, the profoundest thinker.

Gotthold Ephraim Lessing

The most agreeable of all companions is a simple,
 frank person, without any high pretensions in an oppressing greatness — one who leads life, and understands the use of it; abiding alike in all hours; above all, of a cheerful temper, and steadfast in his conduct. For such a one we gladly exchange the greatest joys the most brilliant art, the highest intellect.

Dr. James J. Whalen
President, Newton College 1969-1975

The office of college president is one in which popularity is extremely tenuous. That a man should hold that office in the midst of a community of women and with the degree of success which Dr. Whalen has achieved is particularly outstanding.

In moments of triumph and disappointment he displayed the strength and dedication which proved he cared.

And when he spoke to us of the "style and grace" which have always characterized Newton

we felt certain he understood.

Whoopee!

THE MARTYAKS

Sometimes, not often enough,
We reflect upon the good things,
And our thoughts always center
 around those we love.
And I think about those people,
Who mean so much to me,
And for so many years have made me
So very happy.
And I count the times I have
 forgotten to say,
THANK YOU!
And just how much I love them.

Thank you for four wonderful years.

RAH!

now i love you and you love me
(and books are shuter
than books
can be)
and deep in the high that does nothing but fall (with a shout
each
around we go all)
there's somebody calling who's we

we're anything brighter than even the sun (we're everything greater
than books
might mean)
we're everyanything more than believe (with a spin
leap
alive we're alive)
we're wonderful one times one
